Dear Alice -

For once I'm all cleared up on my letters - I don't owe anybody - But I thought I'd better write somebody at home so Mom would know I got the package all right - and thanks very much. It arrived several days ago - thoughtless me, I never mentioned it in any previous letters. I know I've written some since it came.

How's school? (won't) be so long now 'til the end of the term will it? Then next year you'll graduate. I hope the war's over by then so we can all be home to see you receive the sheepskin. - Are you going to be valedictorian, or something?

Say hello to everybody - and write to me when you can -

Love,

Bill
