

APO 988-

17 June 44

Dear Jewell -

I hereby fulfill a promise, made 'way back in the winter when snow covered everything. Have you forgotten? Here they are, anyway - which proves that flowers grow in the Aleutians. Not in profusion, but plentiful. Perhaps I can locate some more varieties later on - there are three here. I don't know what they are. Hope they still look like flowers when they reach you.

Everything going OK here with me. Playing volleyball, seeing movies, writing. I haven't read very much in the Lin Yutang book yet. The Chinese part appeals to me more than the Indian - not quite so deep.

Hope this finds everybody well -

Love,
Bill