Dear Mom -

Another short one to you to let you know I haven't forgotten about the hurried scratching I sent you a few days ago. Today has been a pretty busy one - in the office - then here in the hut getting it ready for Saturday inspection.

Everything going OK from this end - how's the situation in England and the Hawaiian Islands? You know it's a downright shame the way those guys don't repeat don't write to me. I know there isn't much you can do about it - you've always been good to pass along the little bits of news you get from them. If you miss anything the sisters take care of that. But I still maintain I should hear from them at least once every 6 or 8 months. How's about serving them a little reminder - with sauce?

Speaking of the inspection - the hut is just one big jumbled mess right now. But the floor is clean - and when these boys swing into action in the morning they do it up nicely on very short notice. As yet we haven't been able to make our hut look as nice as the one in the old area - but we will eventually - time is all we need. I think.

Don't forget those afternoon siestas.
Tell everybody hello -

Love,
Bill
