

Castellana Germany
Dec. 16-1918

Dear Stella:

Yesterday was Sunday and the longest day I have spent since I have been on this side of the pond or it seemed that way to me. Well we are in just a small town and it sure is dead then is only a few stores a Church & school. Nothing of much intress. There is lots of girls here but I want tell you what kind they are. We find lots of people that have been in the states some can talk real good english but I don't care much about talking to them for different reasons. I received a letter from Sibbie yesterday that was written November 20th was my glad to get it. I havent got but four letters from you since I have been over here and one of them was one that you sent to me at Camp Johnston. I hope that you have gotten more of mine then that although they may not be very interesting. I know that every letter I get from Mother she says that she writes every Sunday and I don't get many of them. So I figure that you may be the same and I continue to write almost ever week.

We are now up in the mountains just a little ways from the Mosel river and we have been having some trouble it has been raining nearly all the time since we have been in Germany and when a truck gets stuck in the mud all first second and third class passengers have to get out and help push it out some fun Ho! I am included. We haven't got any cracked roads between Coblenz & Aartrich beside the ones that we have just come over and there sure is some beautiful scenery as we go along. I think that we are going to move again in the morning and this time we will be mighty close the Rhine river perhaps will finish this letter then as I will have to get busy soon. Say you tell Gilbie the next time she writes not to say anything about a turkey dinner for it makes a fellow feel bad when he hasn't seen a turkey in so long Ho!
I use to think it bad enough to see people work even back in Tennessee especially in a buggy but here in Germany they work with cows and hitch them up by their heads. What do you think of that? I guess you wonder why this paper or letter is so dirty well it has been raining and I am using a kettle lid for a writing desk so that accounts for it all. Ha!

I suppose that you people will be looking for some of us boys on the other side of the pond soon. I would like mighty well to eat Christmas dinner at home but that is not reasonable as will say that I will be home some time next year.
Has the Quin boy got home yet?
Will finish this next stop. Good night.

Dec. 18-1918. Well we have been on the go again we started early in the morning of 17th finished our trip across the mountains came to a little city by the name of Boppard on the river Rhein and then we followed down the river to Coblenz which is a very fine city we didn't get to stay there only a few minutes but we got to go through the best part of the city and only time enough to get a few post cards. And then we crossed the Mosel river again and landed in the little city where now are now Mayen. We have heard so much about the Rhein and now we have seen it. There is so very beautiful places all along especially what little part we traveled.

It is still raining and my cold and my fingers are cold but perhaps you can see this. I can't say anything about when I will get back to the states we can hear everything but don't know what to believe about going home but we are living in hopes it will be soon.

Sincerely,
Walter Hutchins.
